1. Propose a new PAGES working group by 24 October

Does your heart pound for paleoscience? Know others who feel the same? Propose a new PAGES working group to address a scientific question in an internationally coordinated way. The application deadline is 24 October. You must contact a member of the PAGES Scientific Steering Committee to discuss your plans at least two weeks before you submit the proposal. Applications received without SSC member notification will not be looked upon favorably. All details: <http://pastglobalchanges.org/science/wg/new-wg-proposal>

2. The Early Pages Blog Update

Last month on The Early Pages: We need to look to the past to understand the present and predict the future - a simple fact. In our latest post, Julieta Martinelli talks about how paleoscientists can and should better communicate this fact to decision-makers and the wider community: <https://theearlypages.blogspot.com/2019/09/late-is-too-late-paleosciences-must-be.html>

Stay tuned for our upcoming posts about scientific collaboration, being a PI for the first time, and why oxygen in water is so important.

3. PAGES ECN webinar: “Publishing a scientific paper”

PAGES ECN hosted Professor Thierry Corrège to speak about the publishing process in last month's webinar. Professor Corrège currently serves as Editor of the journal Palaeoceanography, Palaeoclimatology, Palaeoecology. The webinar will be soon uploaded to the PAGES ECN Youtube channel.

4. Pre-registration for the PAGES-INQUA ECR Workshop is now open

The workshop jointly organized by PAGES and INQUA “Past Socio-Environmental Systems” (PASES) is accepting pre-registrations at this link (deadline January 2020). This form aims at gathering ECR's backgrounds, regions of study, and expertise to set the common grounds for the scientific-driven breakout groups. THIS IS NOT a registration form for the workshop. We anticipate to launch it by March 2020. Please write us at workshop.pages.ecn@gmail.com should you have any questions.

5. Report on PAGES ECN splinter meeting at ICP13

The PAGES ECN held a side meeting at the 13th International Conference on Paleooceanography in Sydney in early September. About 20 ECRs came together to learn how one can get involved and benefit from the ECN, as well as discuss possible future directions and activities for the network.

6. Reminder about PAGES ECN social media and jobs/funding resources

We'd like to remind you to check out all the PAGES ECN resources that are linked at the bottom of these newsletters. Be sure to follow us on your preferred social media platforms for the latest updates! You can also find a nice guide to common listservs relevant to our membership as well as advice for how/where to look for jobs. Feel free to provide feedback if you have other ideas for resources the PAGES ECN can host. Email pages.ecn@gmail.com.
